More Info

This travelling exhibition contains images from NERP Marine Biodiversity Hub partners (and a few more), and was curated by Mark Norman, Head of Science at Museum Victoria.

Our aim is to reach out to the general public and raise awareness of the beauty and fragility of Australia's marine biodiversity. We also raise the need for cutting edge science and management to protect and sustainably use this environment.

There are 19 images in this exhibition and they include coral reefs, giant kelp forests, handfish, maps of the seafloor, new sharks and stingrays.

The exhibition opened in the International Year of Biodiversity in 2010 and continues to travel around Australia.

The NERP Marine Biodiversity Hub is supported through funding from the Australian Government's National Environmental Research Program, (and previously through the Commonwealth Environment Research Facility), administered by the Department of Sustainability, Environment, Water, Population and Communities.
